Each country in southern Africa has a unique history but in all of them socio-economic inequalities and high poverty levels weaken the governments' legitimacy and represent a challenge to models of economic development. One key issue appears to be the solution of the land question. This vital concern affects both citizenship and democracy in the political systems of the region, yet no government has shown the capacity or commitment to solve it. In this volume leading European, American and African scholars explore in detail the relationship between state, land and democracy. They examine the historical background of asset allocation and its impact on questions of nationality, the definition of citizenship, human rights and the current political and economic processes in southern Africa.

La storia dell'Africa è un grande tabù: durante il periodo della colonizzazione, le nazioni europee si sono macchiate di crimini orrendi che non vogliono ricordare. Anche dopo l'indipendenza, il continente africano è rimasto vittima di un prelievo netto di risorse umane, finanziarie, agricole e minerarie. Per questo motivo l'interesse del dibattito sulle migrazioni è ormai incentrato sulle necessità degli "ospitanti": nessuno si interessa ai problemi dei paesi africani e degli altri luoghi di provenienza. Tutti impegnati a disquisire sulle conseguenze delle migrazioni, nessuno si occupa delle cause. Il presente volume nasce con l'intenzione di colmare questa lacuna. Il tentativo è quello di superare lo sguardo tipicamente eurocentrico di buona parte della storiografia, della sociologia e dell'economia, cercando di far luce sul passato e sul presente, provando a comprendere quali siano i problemi che l'Africa non è riuscita a risolvere.

This collection of essays in Governing Global Land Deals provides new empirical and theoretical analyses of the relationships between global land grabs and processes of government and governance. Reframes debates on global land grabs by focusing on the relationship between large-scale land deals and processes of governance Offers new theoretical insights into the different forms and effects of global land acquisitions Illuminates both the micro-processes of transaction and expropriation, as well as the broader structural forces at play in global land deals Provides new empirical data on the different actors involved in contemporary land deals occurring across the globe and focuses on the specific institutional, political, and economic contexts in which they are acting

The subject of food security and land issues in Africa has become one of increased importance and contention over recent years. In particular, the focus has shifted to the role new global South donors - especially India, China and Brazil - are playing in shaping African agriculture through their increased involvement and investment in the continent. Approaching the topic through the framework of South-South co-operation, this highly original volume presents a critical analysis of the ways in which Chinese, Indian and Brazilian engagements in African agriculture are structured and implemented. Do these investments have the potential to create new opportunities to improve local living standards, transfer new technology and knowhow to African producers, and reverse the persistent productivity decline in African agriculture? Or will they simply aggravate the problem of food insecurity by accelerating the process of land alienation and displacement of local people from their land? Topical and comprehensive, Agricultural Development and Food Security in Africa offers fresh insight into a set of relationships that will shape both Africa and the world over the coming decades.

By demonstrating that Western conceptions of 'civil society' have provided the framework for interpreting societies in the Global South, Decolonizing Civil Society in Mozambique argues that it is only through a critical deconstruction of these concepts that we can start to re-balance global power relationships, both in academic discourse and in development practices. Examining the exclusionary discourses framing the support for Western-type NGOs in the development discourse - often to the exclusion of local social actors - this book dissects mainstream contemporary ideas about 'civil society', and finds a new means by which to identify local forms of social action, often based in traditional structures and spiritual discourses. Outlining new conceptual ideas for an alternative framing of Mozambique's 'civil society', Kleibl proposes a series of fresh theoretical issues and questions alongside empirical research, moving towards a series of new policy and practice arguments for rethinking and decolonizing civil society in the Global South.

This volume renews the political sociology of land. Chapters examine dynamics of political control and contention in a range of settings, including land grabs in Asia and Africa, expulsions and territorial control in South America, environmental regulation in Europe, and controversies over fracking, gentrification, and property taxes in the USA.

Several studies have investigated the impetus and implications behind large-scale land acquisitions/deals at the global level; however, intranational factors within communities and societies have not received much attention from researchers. The Handbook of Research on In-Country Determinants and Implications of Foreign Land Acquisitions examines the economic, sociological, and environmental issues surrounding land transactions and the impact these deals may have on local households and communities. Focusing on international issues as well as domestic concerns, this publication is a useful reference for policymakers, academics, researchers, and advanced-level students in various disciplines.

Rule and Rupture - State Formation Through the Production of Property and Citizenship examines the ways in which political authority is defined and created by the rights of community membership and access to resources. Combines the latest theory on property rights and citizenship with extensive fieldwork to provide a more complex, nuanced assessment of political states commonly viewed as "weak," "fragile," and "failed" Contains ten case studies taken from post-colonial settings around the world, including Cambodia, Nepal, Indonesia, Afghanistan, Rwanda, Somalia, Democratic Republic of Congo, Stefano Liberti, giornalista vincitore nel 2010 del prestigioso premio Indro Montanelli torna in libreria dopo A sud di Lampedusa con il primo reportage al mondo sull'allarmante e dilagante fenomeno del land grabbing. A partire dalla crisi alimentare e finanziaria del 2007, paesi come l'Arabia Saudita, gli Emirati Arabi, la Libia, la Corea del Sud, che dispongono di grandi risorse economiche ma non di spazi sufficienti per garantire la sicurezza alimentare ai propri abitanti, hanno cominciato a negoziare l'acquisto e l'affitto di enormi quantità di terra nelle nazioni africane o sudamericane; lo stesso stanno facendo le grandi multinazionali dell'agrobusiness - interessate a creare sterminate piantagioni per la produzione di biocarburanti - nonché una serie di società finanziarie, che hanno compreso che l'investimento in terra può garantire ricavi sempre più alti e sicuri. Questa corsa all'accaparramento delle terre, detta land grabbing, nasconde però una forma insidiosa di sfruttamento e rischia di instaurare un nuovo colonialismo. Viaggiando fra le valli dell'Etiopia, le foreste dell'Amazzonia, la borsa di Chicago, le convention finanziarie a Ginevra, gli uffici della FAO, Liberti porta per la prima volta alla luce in ogni sua componente questo fenomeno complesso, e ci spiega come i legami fra politica internazionale e mercato globalizzato stiano cambiando il volto del mondo in cui viviamo.
