The WTO is celebrating its 25th anniversary, and so is the Sanitary and Phyto-Sanitary (SPS) Agreement. The world has changed dramatically since 1995, but food safety was and continues to be a major concern for all of the WTO ' s 164 Members. For that reason, and to foster safe trade to satisfy the nutritional needs of all, the SPS Agreement will continue to be central to WTO ' s role in facilitating trade in safe food across borders.

This collection resulted from an international workshop funded and organised by Biosecurity Australia, the agency of government responsible for analysing Australia's quarantine import risks and for negotiating multilateral SPS rules and less restrictive access to overseas markets for Australian produce. The workshop, which was held at the Melbourne Business School on 24-25 October 2000, brought together a distinguished group of applied economists and quarantine policy analysts whose focus involves regions as disparate as Europe, North America, Africa, Asia and New Zealand, in addition to Australia.
